

EDITORIAL

The journal Rhinology on the web starting 2002

At its last meeting, the Editorial Board of the journal has decided to bring "Rhinology" to the internet. Starting January 2002, the contents of recent issues and supplements, as well as the abstracts of all articles can be found at:

www.rhinologyjournal.com

Other information presented at the website will be: the Editorial address, the Instructions for authors, How to subscribe, How to order back issues, the Meeting Calender, Society News, etcetera.

A search function will be implemented enabling readers to easily find topics, manuscripts or authors of interest.

Information about the most important Rhinological Societies sites and links to their websites is also available.

In the near future the journal will provide its subscribers free access to all articles in full. Non-subscribers will get the opportunity to read them against payment.

We hope you will like the site and we welcome any suggestion for improvement