

Antimicrobial activity of simvastatin against chronic rhinosinusitis-related Staphylococcus aureus: an in vitro study

Background

Results

Conclusions

Simvastatin reduces both the extra- and intracellular burden of S. aureus in mast cells, and represents a potential antibiotic-sparing approach in managing S. aureus-mediated CRS.

